Nervous U.N. Officials Open Special Meet

Security Tight As Top Leaders Plan To Attend

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — With a fervent hope for law and order, U.N. officials opened their doors today to a parade of international leaders arriving for the 25th birthday of the world forum.

Police cars and patrol boats on the East River guarded the land and water approaches of the world organization's headquarters. Inside the buildings and throughout the 18 acres of lawns and gardens, U.N. guards and plainclothesmen kept watch following a warning from J. Edgar Hoover's assistant that an archist group might try to kidnap heads of state attending the anniversary session.

William C. Sullivan, the assistant to the FBI director, gave the warning in a speech prepared for delivery to a group of publishers and editors. But when he gave the speech, he omitted the reference to kidnappings. No reason was given.

The celebration, running from Oct. 14 to 24, will mean blocked-off streets for New Yorkers and less police protection for the city. Some 8,000 policemen have been assigned to guard more than 40 heads of state or government and about 100 ministers of cabinet rank expected to attend.

Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro apparently have decided not to attend the commemoration. But authorities still have the problem of guarding such leaders as President Nixon, British Prime Minister Edward Heath and Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers is scheduled to begin talks Friday with visiting foreign ministers, including Russia's Andrei A. Gromyko. The meetings come at a low point in the Big Four quest for a solution to the Middle East crisis.

The chief U.N. representatives of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union met for two hours Tuesday but reported no progress in the Middle East logjam. They will meet again Oct. 28.

The United Nations began its commemorative session with a new member; the Pacific island nation of Fiji, which was granted independence from Britain last week. Fiji was admitted to the organization Tuesday, becoming its 127th member. There were 51 members when the United Nations was organized.

7 Officers Chosen For Court Martial

FT. HOOD, Tex. (AP) — A panel of seven officers has been chosen for the court-martial of S.Sgt. David Mitchell on charges arising from the alleged My Lai massacre.

Whether the taking of testimony would begin today depended on the disposition of defense motions claiming Mitchell could not receive a fair trial because of widespread publicity and asserted command influence on the proceedings.

Mitchell, 30, charged with assault with intent to murder, is the first defendant to be tried in the 1968 incident. He pleaded innocent.

Lawyers completed the panel selection Tuesday when three members were added after the defense used its one peremptory challenge to oust a colonel. That reduced the number seated to four, one short of the court-martial minimum.

The jury now is made up of two colonels, three captains and two first lieutenants.

Mitchell, of St. Francisville, La., is accused by the Army of shooting at 30 South Vietnamese civilians during an infantry company's sweep through the hamlet on March 16, 1968.

High Court School Debate Gets Hotter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court's inquiry into school desegregation, which moved into a third day today, has evolved into a debate over one primary issue: neighborhood schools.

The emotional situation became particularly evident Tuesday when Justice Hugo L. Black, whose opposition to racial discrimination has never been seriously challenged, told a black lawyer from the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund: "I don't like this trying to condemn a whole way of living." The Fund lawyer, James M. Nabrit III, had argued that "this neighborhood school concept is really a fiction." That is, he said, the Charlotte-Mecklenburg County, N.C., school board had used zoning and school location techniques mostly to preserve segregation, not to perpetuate neighborhood schools. Black told Nabrit, who was supporting a massive busing plan: "How can you rearrange the whole country? ... You want to haul people miles and miles to give them equal percentages in the schools." The neighborhood school concept has become the first line of defense for attorneys defending desegregation plans the civil rights lawyers say do not carry out the 1954 Supreme Court desegregation ruling. The government's lawyer in the school cases, Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold, has told the court school boards should be free "to take into ac-

9 Americans Reported Killed By Viet Cong Booby Trap

SAIGON (AP) — A Viet Cong booby trap killed nine Americans and wounded five south-east of Da Nang, and in the Mekong Delta an American helicopter gunship accidentally killed eight South Vietnamese troops and wounded 23, the U.S. Command announced today.

The booby trap had been made from a dud American artillery shell. Troops of the American Division's 198th Brigade triggered it while on an operation in Quang Ngai province 65 miles southeast of Da Nang. One South Vietnamese soldier also was killed.

It was the heaviest American toll in such an incident in six months, since a similarly rigged 155mm shell killed 14 Americans and wounded 32 on April 15 in the same general area.

The accidental helicopter attack occurred last Sunday 132 miles southwest of Saigon. The U.S. Command said the aircraft fired a dozen 2.75-inch rockets into a force of South Vietnamese the chopper was giving gunfire support to.

The U.S. Command reported only light and scattered action involving American forces. It said one American was killed and one wounded by mines, and two Americans were killed and one wounded in brief skirmishes out from Da Nang.

The South Vietnamese command reported three clashes in which government forces killed a total of 71 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese, at a cost of six government soldiers killed and 18 wounded.

Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky left for Europe and the United States today, reportedly carrying a new South Vietnamese proposal to the Paris peace talks.

Sources in Saigon and London reported that Ky would present the new proposal at the weekly session of the peace talks on Oct. 29.

GOP Leaders Approve Shift From Seniority

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican leaders in the House have approved a proposal to change from a strict seniority basis to a new selection process for committee chairmen and ranking committee members.

The process eliminates seniority as the sole criterion by throwing the selection to the GOP Committee on Committees. It would name chairmen or ranking members and suggest them to the GOP conference.

The conference must approve the new process before it goes into effect.

"This plan does not eliminate seniority as a criterion, but will provide means for considering other factors as well," said House Minority Leader Gerald Ford of Michigan.

the Viet Cong a new basis for a political settlement in South Vietnam, in effect reinforcing the five-point proposal made last week by President Nixon. Some observers believe the plan will lift all restrictions on political activity by former Viet Cong and Viet Cong sympathizers. This in theory would permit former Viet Cong to vote and run for office.

Sources in Saigon said Ky would visit several European countries en route to Paris and would also visit the Vatican for an audience with Pope Paul VI. He is scheduled to begin a two-week official visit to the United States Nov. 6, just after the U.S. elections.

On the battlefronts, U.S. B52 bombers kept up the pressure on North Vietnamese supply routes in Laos with the sixth consecutive day of heavy raids against the Ho Chi Minh trail.

The southwest monsoons which made roads impassable in Laos during the summer months are now shifting to the northeast and will bring dry weather over the Ho Chi Minh trail. In anticipation of a major enemy supply effort during the dry season, the B52s are trying to cut roads and destroy transfer points and truck parks.

General Expects Few Red Attacks Before U.S. Election

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. William B. Rosson predicted today any enemy attacks in Vietnam aimed at influencing the coming U.S. congressional elections "would be modest in intensity and of short duration."

Rosson, until recently Deputy U.S. Commander in Vietnam, told the Association of the United States Army any new wave of enemy attacks would be weak because of the "realities of his diminished capability."

However, Rosson—newly designated commander of U.S. Army forces in the Pacific forecast in his prepared speech the ending of the monsoon rains during the next few weeks will bring increased enemy resupply efforts in southern Laos and northeast Cambodia.

This, he added, may be followed by greater combat activity by the enemy.

Rosson described the general military situation in Vietnam as favorable to the allies in virtually all major areas. He reported enemy pressure in the sensitive northernmost region adjoining Laos and North Vietnam.

While praising the work of regular South Vietnamese forces and the militia, Rosson reported pacification is lagging in the Central Highlands because of poor militia performance.

Most of the populated coastal plain of the northernmost III Corps region has been brought under friendly control, the general said, calling this, "one of the truly impressive success stories of the war."

Nonetheless, with the enemy enjoying short lines of communication and supply to Laotian and North Vietnamese bases, Rosson said, Vietnamization will take longer to accomplish in this area than anywhere else in Vietnam.

In Rosson's view, the situation looks best in the southernmost region of Vietnam, in the III Corps around Saigon and in the Mekong Delta.

"South Vietnamese regulars largely have replaced U.S. forces along the entire border with Cambodia, and territorial forces have been entrusted the immediate defense of Saigon, a far cry from the day when major U.S. and South Vietnamese forces ringed the city," he said.

Johnson Is Named Turnpike Director

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Turnpike Commission named Allan V. Johnson, 36, as its executive director Tuesday, succeeding Russell S. Deetz, who died last month.

Johnson, a native of Cleveland, has been with the Ohio Department of Highways since 1959.

Chicago and had reportedly been active in radical political organizations there in the early and mid 1960s.

In Miami Beach, Atty. Gen. John Mitchell said Tuesday night that a chance sighting of Miss Davis in south Florida led to her capture.

Senate Rejects Porno Findings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rushing toward a 32-day recess, the Senate has gone on record against more liberal pornography legislation and the drafting of women and in favor of voluntary public school prayer.

With many campaigning senators absent, today's agenda—last until Nov. 16—was uncertain. The Senate was forced to adjourn early Tuesday night because of the lack of a quorum after some fighting along party lines.

Word from the Democratic leadership was that, before starting the recess, it hoped to pass a bill authorizing and appropriating $1.6 billion for military construction.

The Senate's most decisive action Tuesday was a 60-5 vote rejecting major findings and recommendations of the recent report of the Commission on Obscenity and Pornography.

The chief recommendation of the commission's majority was legislation prohibiting the sale, exhibition, or distribution of sexual materials to consenting adults should be repealed.

The Senate also approved a proposed constitutional amendment to permit voluntary, non-denominational prayers in the public schools. The vote was 50-20, more than a two-thirds majority.

The effect of the amendment, if approved by the House and ratified by three-fourths of the state legislatures, would be to clarify a 1961 Supreme Court ruling which banned required prayers from public schools.

But the amendment's fate is highly uncertain because it was added onto another proposed constitutional amendment to guarantee women equal rights with men under state and federal laws.

The equal rights amendment was approved by the House in August by a 350-15 vote, but it has run into rough going in the Senate. Its chances of being sent to the states this year for ratification have appeared to be slipping daily.

Claim Cloud 'Using' State Employees

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A campaign aide to John J. Gilligan, Democratic candidate for governor, said today that state employees and equipment are being used to distribute campaign literature of his opponent, Auditor Roger Cloud.

Rep. John C. McDonald, D-19 Newark, asked Atty. Gen. Paul W. Brown to investigate. He said such action violates Ohio law.

McDonald, a Gilligan campaign assistant, submitted pictures along with his letter to Brown that he said showed Cloud campaigning in a state highway garage in Ashland.

"I can only assume that this politicking at public expense is being repeated in each of the 12 state highway divisions throughout Ohio," McDonald said.

McDonald said the literature was being distributed in state automobiles under the direction of Rollen Koons, safety director of Division 3, and Robert Whitwell, equipment supervisor.

Soviets, U.S. Eye Space Cooperation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. space agency is sending five top officials to Moscow next week to find out whether astronauts and cosmonauts might some day practice docking their spacecraft while in orbit.

Officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration are now fairly optimistic after years of Soviet disinterest toward, and even rebuffs of, U.S. proposals for space collaboration.

Arnold W. Frutkin, NASA assistant administrator for international affairs, told a news conference Tuesday the earliest possible new program to be considered in making Soviet and U.S. spacecraft sufficiently compatible to dock together is Skylab.

NASA already has spent $1.4 billion in establishing Skylab by modifying an Apollo command-and-service module into an earth-orbiting workshop and solar observatory for a three-man crew.

One day after a Saturn 5 spacecraft has launched the Skylab into orbit 270 miles above the earth, late in 1972, a Saturn 1-B rocket will launch the first crew, which will remain in the workshop up to 28 days. That crew will be returned to earth, and two other three-man crews will be launched, at about 90-day intervals, for duty tours of up to 56 days each.

"I don't mean to suggest that we are looking at Skylab particularly with a view to Soviet spacecraft rendezvous," Frutkin said. "It is merely the next item on which we could in common use new devices in common with those of the Russians."

Temporary Judge Named For Eaton

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Oakwood Municipal Judge Irvin H. Harlamert will preside over municipal court in Eaton until a new judge is named.

Chief Justice C. William O'Neill of the Ohio Supreme Court assigned Harlamert to the temporary duty Tuesday to fill a vacancy created by the death of Judge John P. Burke.

Nixon is to speak from the west steps of the statehouse in his first visit here since he campaigned for the presidency in 1968.

The President's tentative schedule does not include stops at other Ohio cities, such as Cincinnati or Cleveland, other Republican sources said.

GSA Orders U.S. Guards On Full Alert

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A bomb exploded early today in a third-floor library of the Center for International Affairs at Harvard University after a warning telephone call. The blast blew out windows, shredded concrete and bent steel reinforcing rods in the ceiling.

Archibald Cox, a former U.S. solicitor general and now a Harvard law professor, described the damage as "a terrible mess." Cox spoke for the president at a news conference on campus shortly after the explosion.

Newsmen were barred from the building.

Cox said a woman with a "nervous" voice called campus police about 12:30 a.m. and warned, "There's a bomb at 6 Divinity Avenue ... going to go off in six minutes. This is not a joke. Get the janitor out of there. Remember the Brooklyn courthouse and California."

Two police officers rushed to the building but found no one inside. After waiting outside for a few minutes they entered to search for a bomb. It exploded on the third floor just as they were inside the first-floor door. Neither was injured, nor were other injuries reported.

State Police Lt. Joseph Sainato, a bomb expert, said damage would run to $40,000.

Neither Cambridge nor Harvard police made any statement connecting the Harvard bombing with others in California, Washington and New York recently, or with radical groups. The Weatherman, a radical faction of Students for a Democratic Society, has said it has started a "fall offensive" to attack its enemies around the country.

Canadian Kidnap Talks Suspended

MONTREAL (AP) — Negotiations for the release of two kidnapped officials were suspended today because the government held out for guarantees of their safety.

Robert Lemieux, 29-year-old lawyer representing the separatist Quebec Liberation Front, the FLQ, walked out Tuesday night after the third meeting in 24 hours. "I cannot continue these negotiations without receiving a new mandate," he said.

The government is demanding assurances that James Richard Cross, British trade commissioner in Montreal, and Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte will be released unharmed if it reaches agreement with the FLQ.

Lemieux said he was empowered only to negotiate the question of how the government would meet the ransom demands.

The government negotiator, Robert Demers, made no statement, but the office of Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa said, "The Quebec government remains firm in its position." This was a reference to Bourassa's request Sunday night for the FLQ to set up machinery guaranteeing the safety of the two hostages.

For the release of Cross, the FLQ is demanding an end to police investigation into the kidnappings and the transfer to Algeria or Cuba of 23 men convicted or awaiting trial for terrorist activity and their families.

Laporte will be released, the FLQ has promised, when the government meets these two demands and four others: payment of $500,000 in gold; publication of FLQ propaganda; exposure of an FLQ informer; and reinstatement of mail truck drivers who lost their jobs when the Montreal city government took over mail delivery in the city this year.

Two Car-Truck Accidents Injure Four

Four people were injured in two separate car-truck accidents in Pickaway County Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning.

Lloyd J. Arledge, 19, Chillicothe, suffered abrasions and contusions when his car collided with a truck driven by Myron Paul Cree, 55, Lancaster, at 4:16 p.m. Thursday at the intersection of Route 22 and Route 104 west of Circleville.

Cree had abrasions and contusions and a passenger in his truck, Neil Fox, 44, Lancaster, had lacerations of the face and shoulder. Both were treated at Berger Hospital.

According to the report of Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Bill Dounitz, Arledge had stopped for the stop sign at Route 22 and then pulled out into the path of Cree's truck.

ARLEDGE was cited for failure to yield the right of way. Karen Clifton, 17, Ashville, suffered a bruised leg when a car in which she was a passenger collided with a truck driven by David E. Justus, 32, Stoutsville, at 7:55 a.m. Wednesday at the intersection of the Circleville-Lockbourne Road and S. Station St. in Ashville.

Justus was in the process of turning onto the Station Road when Richard J. Clifton, 16, of Ashville attempted to pass, hitting her truck on the side.

The accident was investigated by Deputy Sheriff Don Thompson.

PTA Booth Needs Workers

The Parent Teacher Assn. Pumpkin Show Booth for the Junior High and Nicholas Drive Buildings is in need of pies and workers. It was announced today by Mrs. Gene Rase, co-chairman of the booth.

Mrs. Rase noted shifts are 9 a.m. to noon, noon to 3 p.m., 3 to 6, 6 to 9 and 9 to midnight on Saturday. Those who can work are reminded to get their skin tests.

Persons who can work or donate pies are asked to contact Mrs. Earl Christopher, 474-5054 or Mrs. Gene Rase, 474-3606.

count the benefits to be derived from preserving the traditional neighborhood method of school assignment.

This argument is the biggest obstacle in the path of the Legal Defense Fund as it seeks a ruling that assures every black child in areas where segregation was enforced by government action to attend schools not racially identifiable as Negro.

Black's startling statements to Nabrit visibly troubled the civil rights lawyer, who stammered as he groped for a response. He told the 84-year-old justice he was not trying to rearrange living patterns in the country, but only trying to integrate the schools.

"From the first case," Black said, "I have been interested in plain discrimination on account of race. We should correct that."

Black, who above all the justices has insisted through the years on immediate compliance with school desegregation rulings, also told Nabrit: "If you can show me that there has been discrimination against someone because of race I will be with you on that. But I don't like this attack on the whole practice and tradition of the neighborhood schools."

When the justices moved on to the Mobile, Ala., school case, Jack Greenberg, director-general counsel of the Fund, tried immediately to overcome the neighborhood argument.

Using a wooden pointer and a diagram of school districts in Metropolitan Mobile, Greenberg said the school board "has assigned children on anything but a neighborhood basis."

The civil rights lawyer said blacks and whites both were bused far away from their homes to perpetuate segregation.

The big question is whether the justices will be convinced.

who refer to it in publications as a "tool of American imperialism." Police said leaflets denouncing the center's activities were circulated in Harvard Square Monday night by Harvard-Radcliffe Students for a Democratic Society.

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Authorities evacuated three court buildings after a man telephoned police that "a bomb is going to go off in the courthouse near the Green."

One of the buildings was Superior Court, where Bobby Seale, national chairman of the Black Panther, was appearing with other Panther member for pre-trial hearings.

The other buildings evacuated Tuesday house the Circuit Court, U.S. District Court and the Post Office building, all on or near the Green in downtown New Haven near Yale University.

Police allowed persons back into the buildings after a half-hour search failed to turn up any explosives.

Seale is charged with first-degree murder, kidnapping resulting in death, conspiracy to murder and conspiracy to kidnap.

WASHINGTON (AP) — An indefinite alert for terrorist attacks has gone into effect at federal installations across the country.

"We just can't tolerate this any more without taking some action," said Robert L. Kunzig, General Services Administrator, who ordered tightened security at all federally maintained civilian installations.

A spokesman for Kunzig said the General Services Administration placed guards on patrol outside all federal buildings, locked all but main entrances and began to refuse entry to anyone carrying suspicious parcels who refused inspection.

The increased vigilance came after a bomb explosion at a federal office building in Rochester, N.Y., Monday. The spokesman said security had been under scrutiny "for some time" because of a series of bomb attacks at various government and non-government sites.

GSA has 3,582 guards at 266 federally-owned buildings and 104 other buildings or offices leased by the government.

The spokesman said he did not know whether the alert was prompted by any secret information warning of further attacks; nor did he know how long the alert might remain in effect.

Four Fined $50

For Sunday Hunting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Physically barring the Senate door, a Democratic leader has prevented quick action on a House-passed farm bill in tit-for-tat retaliation against earlier Republican refusal to allow a vote on a massive industrial safety bill.

As a result, both measures may well be stalled until Congress returns Nov. 16 from its election recess which begins tonight.

Senators from both sides of the aisle sputtered, fumed, bickered and displayed partisan stripes for all to see in a day that was climaxed when assistant Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia stood in the Senate door and refused to admit Robert Berry, a House clerk.

Byrd was acting majority leader at the time and was with in his rights under Senate rules to stop anyone he pleased from entering.

Berry, son of Rep. E. Y. Berry, R-S.D., was carrying notice the House had approved the joint conference report on the farm bill. This bill includes a three-year extension of agricultural programs, and for the first time sets a $55,000-per-acre ceiling on subsidies growers of wheat, cotton and feed grains can be paid for not growing crops.

Byrd's move sparked a flow of partisan rhetoric from Republicans who accused the

Involves Calculated Risk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top White House officials see a calculated risk to the Saigon government's hold on the Vietnamese countryside if the Communist side accepts President Nixon's Indochina cease-fire plan.

But they say the chance of securing meaningful peace talks in Paris makes the risk worth taking.

A standstill cease-fire is part of a five-point Nixon peace package on which the officials briefed news media representatives in Hartford, Conn., Monday. Publishers, broadcasters, reporters and editors from states ranging from Maine to Virginia attended.

A transcript of the briefing— which dwelled heavily on the Middle East as well as the Indochinese peace bid—was released Tuesday. The officials insisted they not be identified by name.

They said every U.S. study indicates the South Vietnamese government's grip on its people—particularly those living on the Laotian border—would weaken somewhat if the Communists went along with the Nixon-proposed cease-fire.

But the presidential decision to intervene in Cambodia last spring and improved combat readiness of South Vietnamese troops make possible now a cease-fire offer that would have been catastrophic six months ago, the officials stated.

They said the Nixon adminis-

Webb Sentenced In Embezzlement

The second Bonded Oil company employee charged with the embezzlement of over $300 from the station Oct. 2, made his second appearance today before the county court and was given three years probation.

James Webb, 22, was at the criminal hearing session of the Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Wednesday morning on a bill of information. He entered a guilty plea to the embezzlement charge, waiving a preliminary hearing in the city court.

Webb was before the court Friday to have his case heard by Judge William Ammer without a trial or waiting for the January grand jury to consider his case. At that session, however, he asked to be represented by counsel and his case was returned to the lower court.

His companion in the conspiracy, Ralph Large, 20, of 357 Barnes Ave., admitted guilt during last week's hearing and was placed on probation for three years. Webb asked to change his plea at the Friday session, but the court refused. Both men were ordered to make restitution of the money.

Charges were filed against the two after police officers became suspicious about Large's story about the incident.

Southard Appears On Forgery Charge

Robert Orville Southard, a Cleveland resident wanted since 1968 for forgery in Pickaway County, made his appearance in Common Pleas Court today and asked for a jury hearing.

Southard was indicted by the April 1969 grand jury for the forgery of three payroll checks in Pickaway County. At the time of his indictment he was serving a term in a federal penitentiary in Atlanta, Ga., on a other incident. Recently released, he was returned to Pickaway County to face the charge.

Southard has asked for the court to appoint him counsel and entered a plea of not guilty. His case was continued.

Earlier, in a somewhat broader coalition, some senators spoke of playing fast and loose with the welfare of workers affected by the industrial safety bill.

Republican Leader Hugh Scott, alerted to Byrd's blocking move, dashed from his office down the corridor in a futile protest.

Inside the Senate chamber, Scott pleaded for recognition, "So that the messenger from the House who still lingers without instructions on what to do next, can come in with the farm bill."

The messenger had already departed, Byrd said.

"It is apparent to anyone who opens his eyes that the clerk from the House is waiting outside the door," said Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, peering through the ornate grillwork.

"I demand regular order," said Byrd, in a parliamentary move cutting Miller off in mid-speech.

Scott said it was unprecedented for Democrats to use their majority power to block final enactment of the farm bill. Then he objected to Byrd's routine request that the secretary of the Senate be allowed to receive messages from the House during the upcoming recess.

It was suggested someone might try to slip the farm bill in among the messages.

Miller said he would object to any business of any kind being brought before the Senate as long as the House clerk was denied entrance with the bill.

Shortly after that, a Republican senator called for a quorum. A quorum was not present and the session ended.

8 Kiwanians Attend 10S Meeting

Eight officers of the Circleville Kiwanis Club attended a dinner meeting of 10S Division of the Ohio District of International Kiwanis Club at Reynoldsburg Methodist Church Tuesday.

Lt. Gov. Rod Blades conducted the meeting. Awards were presented to outstanding club committees in the district.

Local member Stanley Spring, division chairman of International Relations, was a member of the awards committee.

Charles Hart, past lieutenant governor, presented a plaque of appreciation to the outgoing lieutenant governor, Roger Rosenkrantz.

Following the meeting, training sessions were held for all reporting club committees. Attending from the local club were:

James Shea, president; Doyle Painter, vice president and public relations chairman; Bruce Bell, treasurer; Joe Bell, membership development chairman; Robert Ogden, boys and girls co-chairman; Stanley Spring; Waldo Martin, past club president and inter-club chairman.

8 Juvenile Suits Dropped From Docket

Eight cases involving neglect of youngsters and application for emergency care were terminated during the previous Juvenile Court session.

Reasons for their dismissal from the docket included adoption, marriage and return of the child to his parents and their moving out of Pickaway County.

Other cases considered all involved traffic violations.

Squealing tires brought two Circleville boys suspended $10 fines and loss of driving privileges for 30 days. Dennis Jackson, 16 and William A. Boltenhouse, 17, were each charged by city police for making unnecessary noise. Boltenhouse was picked up a week after the first offense and charged with drag racing in the city's business section during early morning hours. For this he was ordered to pay a $25 fine and lost his license for an additional six months.

Gary L. Brady, 16, Route 1, Ashville, was arrested by Ashville Marshal Alva Boyer for operating a motorcycle without a license and speeding in a school zone. He paid $10 and had $30 in fines suspended. In addition, Brady was ordered not to apply for his license for seven months after completing a drivers' training course or reaching his 18th birthday.

A Commercial Point boy, Terry F. Martin, 17, was fined $25 and lost his license for three months on a charge of reckless operation causing an accident on the Dennis McCord Road. $15 of his fine was suspended.

Seventeen-year-old Bruce Coffenberg, Route 2, Orient, had his driving privileges suspended for 30 days. His $10 fine was suspended.

Experience Needed In Congress

Chalmers P. Wylie, during the past two years as Congressman of the 15th District, has proven himself as an able representative of Pickaway County.

Aware of his integrity, interest and ability as a legislator, The Circleville Herald endorses him as a candidate for another term in Congress.

Chalmers Wylie has exhibited many times over his sense of responsibility to his Pickaway County constituents as well as the remainder of his district which includes Madison County and western Franklin County.

He has the necessary experience and willingness to meet the challenges of a vital public function. The Herald believes he will continue to provide our area with an honest and fair representation if he is re-elected.

Congressman Wylie has been an "on-the-job" representative. The lawmaker has a record of about 95 per cent participation in all of the 812 roll-call votes that have been taken in Congress in the 3½ years he has served (two years with the 15th District including Pickaway County).

Chalmers Wylie has passed the test. We ask you to keep experience in Congress by voting in his favor when you go to the polls next month.

NASA Goes Metric

There must be something symbolic in the fact the National Aeronautics and Space Administration will become the first United States agency to switch to the metric system of measurement. A NASA directive has been issued which states that all future scientific and technical publications will express measurements in terms of the metric system.

Thus the U. S. slowly begins to turn to a measurement system much of the world has been using for many years. By one count, 110 countries now use the metric system, with the United States, Britain and Canada, Australia and New Zealand the only industrial nations still using the English system based on inches and pounds.

With Britain converting to the metric system and the commonwealth nations expected to follow shortly, the U. S. soon may find itself the lone industrial holdout. Advantages of the metric system are found in its simplicity. All units are expressed in decimals or multiples of 10.

At this point, NASA resembles the tail wagging the dog by converting on its own to the metric system, but once that change has been completed the complete transition may follow rapidly.

The Age Of 'Instant Mail'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Some time ago I wrote a column speculating on the probability that if the Post Office had been run by free enterprisers instead of the government it would have come up with all sorts of electronic marvels in speeding mail communications. I now discover that the requisite technologies are already in being, largely because of the free enterprise drive of Western Union. Moreover, Postmaster General Winton Blount, an old U.S. Chamber of Commerce president, is very much in favor of cooperating with Western Union to put some of the new communications delivery methods into widespread practice. The fact that the Post Office is about to become a public corporation should make things easier for Red Blount to carry through some of the more important innovations.

The problem is to break down the walls that separate the three technologies that have been represented by a) the telephone, b) the telegraph and c) the delivery of the written word. Western Union has already made a significant start in this by its "mailgram" program, which exploits the need for something faster than mail but less expensive than a telegram. The "mailgram" works like this: a company with a telex machine will send its message by electronic transmission to a designated post office thousands of miles away. There the message will be put into an envelope for quick local mail delivery.

"A letter" sent by this method from New York to Los Angeles or San Francisco could be delivered within hours. Currently Western Union, in cooperation with the Post Office, is providing such service for subscribing companies in twelve U.S. cities (Boston, Newark, Washington, Detroit, Miami, Seattle, Charlotte, N.C., Cincinnati, Atlanta, Dallas, Denver and Kansas City, Mo.)

The cost averages $1.10 for fifty words.

"The mailgram" meets with Postmaster General Red Blount's approval because the use of it might be expanded to work their magic. The boon the costly special delivery service that now loses money. To make the "mailgram" really effective the average letter writer would need access to telex service without owning a machine on his own or going to a Western Union office with a typescript. However, this could be worked out by bringing the telephone companies into the game of "interconnection."

There is no reason that Joe Doakes in Portland, Maine, wanting to get a quick letter off to Portland, Ore., couldn't call a designated telephone number, dictate his message to a recording machine, and then wait for the electronic circuits to work their magic. The boon to a newspaper columnist trying to "overhead" a column from a distant place to his home office would be immeasurable. As President Russell McFall of Western Union puts it, it's rather silly to "haul paper around in sacks on planes and trains" when a combination of three technologies could so easily avoid the physical handling of mountainous quantities of mail over long distances. If you can send flowers and candy in a few hours by electronics, you can certainly deliver the typed-out word by the same means.

Telephonic communication could, of course, dispense with the recorded word entirely. But most businesses and people require records, if only to protect themselves against being misunderstood. The current objections to wedding the various technologies to guarantee "next day physical delivery" of mail almost anywhere in the U.S. — or, for that matter, the world — comes from the labor unions, which are worried about the impact on the job situation. But technological improvements always end by creating new jobs to replace the old. Moreover, they are usually jobs of a less menial nature and they consequently pay more money.

The use of the computer to handle switching and routing of electronic messages is expanding by leaps and bounds. And Western Union is currently setting up six large centralized telephone recording bureaus in six locations around the U.S. All that remains to be done to bring on the new day of communication is to get the Federal Communications Commission and the Post Office, both government bodies, to help eradicate a few institutional walls, and to explain to a few labor leaders in the postal unions, the United Telegraph Workers and the Communications Workers of America that there is gold in them thar hills for the union rank-and-filers as well as for everybody else.

"HARRIET!!"

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A NERVOUS hunter tapped a lodge proprietor on the shoulder to report, "I need another guide." "What's the one I assigned to you a half hour ago?" countered the proprietor. "He's one of my most reliable men." "He won't do," said the nervous hunter. "I've already shot him."

Texas Guinan, whose nightclub in the bootleg twenties was a Mecca for gangsters, playboys, and little girls on the make, found herself with two affable young ladies of her ensemble aboard a California-bound train one evening. Frankly bored with each other, they found it ludicrously simple to round up three unattached gentlemen in the dining car, and set up a game of poker. Two of the men were youngish, conservatively attired, obviously prosperous. The third seemed a trustworthily old covey despite a very gaudy necktie. The game proved so enjoyable that it was continued, with interruptions for eating and sleeping, clear into the Los Angeles terminal. There the two young conservatives were promptly met by a squad of detectives and hustled off to the hoosegow. It seems they had robbed a Chicago bank of some $200 thousand in cash. The oldest with the gaudy necktie was accorded quite a greeting, too. He turned out to be Thomas B. Marshall, twenty-eighth Vice President of the United States.

To Jim Murray, Los Angeles' Number One Pun-dit, "muchas gracias" means the lawn needs mowing, and Indian warpaint is known as "Sioux venter."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Can cracks in the corner of the mouth be prevented? They are more annoying than painful but sometimes can be both.

Miss J.L., Rhode Island
Dear Miss L.: Cracks or fissures in the skin at the corners of the mouth are frequently thought to be due to a vitamin deficiency. This is only one of the reasons for them and probably the least frequent cause.

A far more frequent reason, especially in the elderly who wear dentures, is that saliva accumulates in the corners and irritates the surface of the skin. When once this condition begins, it is very difficult to clear up without diligently working at it. The dentures should be made to fit better. The crusting should be kept dry and ointments, suggested by the doctor, should be applied at regular intervals. Rarely is the skin infected if it is, antibiotic ointment and sometimes cortisone is applied.

Children who breathe through their mouths because of large adenoids saliva a great deal and have these cracks. Adults whose noses are blocked because of allergies do the same thing. Treatment must therefore be directed to the underlying cause. If there is any evidence of vitamin deficiency, replacement must be made by diet and vitamin supplements.

An outbreak of impetigo occurred in the day camp which our child attends. She does not have it yet. Is there any way to prevent it?

Mrs. I.B.T., Alabama
Dear Mrs. T.: Impetigo contagiosa is caused by the taphylococcus or the streptococcus bacteria. It is a highly contagious skin condition that occurs mainly in children and occasionally in adults. Camps, schools and nurseries are favorite breeding grounds and the condition spreads rapidly unless the infected child is immediately isolated from the others.

There is no incubation period as with measles or chicken pox. Therefore, there is no need to withdraw your child from the camp or anticipate that she will acquire impetigo if proper hygienic measures have been instituted.

Pustules and crusts form on the skin and are readily distinguished from other skin conditions by the doctor. Antibiotics taken by mouth and locally applied to the skin rapidly clear up the condition.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

Women are five times as likely to steal hotel towels on their first honeymoon as on any later one.

There are more ladies who can make a meringue than there are men who can spell it correctly.

You are more likely to be struck by lightning if you stand under an oak tree during a storm than if you take shelter under an elm.

If, when you reach for the key to your front door, you invariably find it in the same pocket, you are in a worse rut than you realize and need some kind of change to pep up your life.

A young husband who divorces a wayward wife is more likely to be forgiven by his mother-in-law than by his father-in-law. Few papas can face up to the realization that the little darling who used to climb into their laps has turned out to be a tramp.

No matter how much they charge for a nickel cup of coffee, it still tastes like 4 cents.

You can usually tell a man's age pretty well by the number of medicines he keeps in the drawer of his office desk. If they take up more than one drawer, he is either a hypochondriac or overdue for retirement.

What is the one sure way for a man to determine how he stands with a girl? Perhaps by the number of times she uses his first name. Whenever a girl is indifferent toward a fellow, she addresses him impersonally. But when she has an affectionate feeling for him—whether she quite realizes it herself or not—she cannot keep his name from her tongue. The sound of it is like a bell in her mouth that rings an echo in her heart.

Nothing makes a guy feel more superior than winning money from a minister during a poker game. He is superbly confident then that he has heaven on his side.

No matter how much a man has been around there are always limits to his experience. For example, twice in my life I have shaken hands with guys who had tapeworms but so far as I know, I have never set any one who has seen Timbuktú, ridden on a dog sled, or watched an elephant being born.

Men who have hangovers regularly rarely shave with either an electric or an old-fashioned straight-edged razor.

The conversation of people who habitually talk to themselves is usually so dull they can't even catch their own attention.

Halloween still comes only once a year. The problem is how to keep from feeling like you're living it every one of the other 364 days.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The record-breaking surge in stock market volume during the past few weeks reflects a marked change in the attitudes of some mutual funds, which account for a growing percentage of activity.

During the final full week of September, volume reached a record high of 83,422,450 shares on the New York Stock Exchange. That record survived just two weeks before it was broken on volume of 84.1 million shares.

There is little question that institutional traders provided much of the action, as revealed by big block statistics.

Included in the old, one-week record were about 470 blocks of 10,000 shares or more, and last week's new high included about the same number. Big blocks accounted for 13,342,900 shares last week, which once was a fair week's activity from all sources of trading.

Accompanying this rise is a steady reduction in the cash position of mutual funds, indicating that much of the surge in volume is coming from that source.

Earlier this year the funds maintained record amounts of cash as they, too, shied away from a market that was proving costly to all investors.

Moreover, they expected a rash of redemptions because of their poor performance, and needed cash with which to honor requests. Their average cash position, therefore, rose to 12 per cent or more of assets.

The rush to redeem has not developed as anticipated—which isn't to say that it never will. Through August, at any rate, redemptions were falling, which is a departure from precedent.

Mutual fund officials note that in previous years when a market recovery was under way, many customers cashed in their funds, the enticement being the rising per share value and the sense of relief on being able to dispose of holdings at prices higher than a few weeks or a few months earlier.

That the same pattern appears to be delayed this year has given encouragement to portfolio managers. Maybe, they are saying, those big reserves of cash aren't necessary.

Market analysts now believe that the cash position of mutual funds will continue to dip during the autumn as more and more funds decide they can put their money into stocks instead of in more liquid assets.

Cash reserves were more than 11 per cent in August, but some industry officials wouldn't be at all surprised to find during the next week or so that September's reserves fell to around 10 per cent.

Another reason for the activity appears to be portfolio cleaning by new managers of performance-minded funds, trusts, insurance companies and the like.

Circleville's late Dr. Howard Jones and family were honored for books on bird life in Ohio. The series of hand-colored lithographs was an effort termed second only to Audubon's folios from England.

In all, 90 sets of the books were finally produced. Of these, four sets were incomplete and 27 others "broken." Completed sets were scattered in museums and libraries through the country, including the Library of Congress, Washington D. C. and Pickaway County public library which has a complete hand-colored set.

Charles Brown, Route 2, was one of eight Ohio youths nominated to participate in the International Farm Youth program where farm habits were studied in foreign countries by a visit to the countries.

'Drowned' Boys Found

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Two 14-year-old Covington boys who first were believed to have drowned late Sunday night in the Licking River, were found Monday night on the University of Kentucky campus at Lexington, Ky., police reported.

Police said the boys, listed as John Fairbanks and Brian Rowlette, are being held in the Kentucky Center for Juvenile Delinquency pending return here.

Earlier Monday night the boys were reported to have been seen walking along U. S. 27 near Cynthiana, Ky. Police said they were told the boys were hitchhiking to Florida.

A companion told police Sunday night that the boys disappeared after they plunged into the Licking River for a swimming race from the Covington shore to the opposite shore in Wilder, Ky.

Police and firemen became suspicious Monday that the report might be a hoax after dragging operations failed to produce any trace of the lads.

Of the 97,000 to 125,000 forest fires in the nation each year, only about 10,000 result from the prime natural cause: lightning strikes. The rest are caused by man — tourists, hunters, fishermen, farmers, campers, and lumbermen — according to the National Geographic Society.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Russell Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Spung.

and Mrs. Lloyd Spung, Virgil Timmons, and Grace Anderson.

Women's activities, Donna Beougher and Mary DeLong, co-chairman; Esther Collins and Alma McKenzie. Youth activities, Darlene Collins.

Mrs. Timmons thanked the grange for sending her to the recent State Lecturers Conference at Brinkhaven. She and Mr. Timmons gave highlights of program inclusions and benefits.

As deputy master, Paul Dunkle, who was one of the staff at the Lecturers Conference, commended Saltcreek Valley Grange for having the largest representation. He gave promoting reminders of the State Conference Oct. 25-28 and the Oct. 14 installation of officers of Pickaway County Subordinate Granges hosted by Mt. Pleasant Grange.

A communication was read from Betty Bolender thanking

Pickaway Grange Report

SALT CREEK VALLEY

Saltcreek Valley Grange members were given opportunity to review and evaluate changing differences in thinking and doing during the program arranged by the Tutor Rebecca Timmons.

The theme used was "Oddities of The Past." After singing of "The Wild Bird," Hoyt Timmons gave details of 1816 — that Summerless Year in Ohio. Assisted by Paul Dunkle, Mrs. Timmons gave dramatic skit. The strange use of words was read by Gladys Hedges. For roll call, each gave a personal oddity in their past.

During the ritualistic and business portion of the evening, the master, Francis Fraunfelter, announced the following responsibilities for the 1970-71 activity year: Social time hospitality, Eloise Dunkle and Leora Sayre, co-chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Wolfe, Mr.

Guest Speaker Addresses Morning Circle

Mrs. Willis Flowers was guest speaker for the Tuesday meeting of the Morning Circle of Calvary United Methodist Church in the home of Mrs. Edgar Anderson, Route 2, Williamsport.

Mrs. Harry Davis, program leader, read Scripture from Roman's and Matthew concerning changes in time and raising children. Members sang "Onward Christian Soldiers" and prayed the "Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. Flowers talked of her experiences as a worker with Girl Scouts over the past nine years. She noted the changes in the girls and how much enjoyment she and the girls had. She displayed a number of projects made by the girls including work of beginners, junior and senior Scouts. She told of hikes, picnics, weekend camps and trips taken by her group.

The business session was directed by Mrs. Cary Shasteen which included serving the noon meal to children of the Brooks-Yates School on Oct. 28. Members were reminded of unfinished projects for which a work day will be set in November.

It was agreed to give $25 to the Thanksgiving offering for the improvement fund and $25 for the Christmas offering to be given to Otterbein Home.

The "Do It Yourself Project" started in July was handed in by those present along with the regular monthly offering.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. Anderson served a variety of doughnuts and coffee.

The November meeting is scheduled to be held in the home of Mrs. Russell Archer with Mrs. Clark Zwyer as program leader.

Name Of Taft May Rescue Ohio Republicans From Trouble

The Circleville Herald, Wed. Oct. 14, 1970 7

By BILL NEIKIRK Associated Press Writer COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Taft is more a household word than Agnew in Ohio, an elementary fact of political life that may rescue the state's Republicans from the throes of scandal, strife and a wealthy Democratic nominee in a key U. S. Senate race.

A Republican candidate by any other name would face almost certain defeat in the Nov. 3 election with so many things working against the GOP, but with the Taft name, the race is a tossup.

Rep. Robert Taft Jr., grandson of the nation's 27th president and son of the late senator, says his race with Democrat Howard M. Metzenbaum is too close to call, although a poll gives the Democrat a narrow lead.

"It's about even," the Cincinnati congressman said. "I have a few more of the undecided votes leaning toward me than my opponent does toward him. But that doesn't mean a damn thing. It could change overnight."

Metzenbaum, the energetic Cleveland industrialist who defeated former astronaut John Glenn in a tight Democratic primary, has made the race into a virtual referendum on President Nixon's administration. But he does not overlook the vote-getting appeal of the Taft name.

"I ask you," he says to his audiences, "would Bob Taft truly be in this race if his grandfather hadn't been president and his father had not been known as Mr. Republican?"

Nowhere in this off-year campaign are the lines between liberal and conservative more clearly drawn, and the contrast between the Ohio candidates is just as sharp.

The reserved, mild-mannered Taft, born into wealth, tradition and the Episcopal church, is the essence of Middle America conservatism, a supporter of President Nixon's Vietnam policies, a hardliner on crime and campus unrest, a believer in conservative fiscal policies.

Metzenbaum, a Jew who made millions in the parking lot business, came from humble beginnings.

"Making money isn't everything," he tells voters. "The question is what you do with your life and what you get involved in."

Metzenbaum hammers away at President Nixon's economic policies, says the administration should set a deadline for withdrawal from Vietnam, and favors cutting back the defense budget to put more money into domestic social programs.

Both men are 53, but Taft, with his dark hair, looks younger, a feature that his aides say will help him immensely in television debates with the white haired Metzenbaum.

The Democratic nominee, on the other hand, acts younger, appearing tireless on the campaign trail.

When handshaking, he zips along from one person to the next, his feet in almost constant motion. "Hi, I'm Howard Metzenbaum, I'm running for the U.S. Senate, and I'd like your vote."

Taft, heavier than his opponent and slower moving, keeps his reserve. His introduction is simple. "Hi, Bob Taft," with no mention of the office he is seeking. Voter identification is not his problem.

It was Metzenbaum's until the primary when he spent his money—nearly half a million dollars funneled through his family alone — to defeat folk hero Glenn.

Voters talk about his spending now, some saying a person who went that far to get nominated doesn't deserve to get elected. But Metzenbaum says, "I don't think we'll lose any votes on that issue."

"Hell, I had to spend that money," he said in an interview.

"How could a man win that race when he starts out with a 10 per cent identification factor?"

Taft doesn't mention the issue. "I don't have to," he smiles but he is fond of calling Metzenbaum a "limousine liberal."

Taft hits hard at Metzenbaum as an "ultraliberal" who, he says, is soft on crime and campus unrest. "If he gets in there, says the congressman, "he's going to be a Fulbright-type senator . . . a Monday - morning quarterback."

Metzenbaum rejects campus unrest as an issue, although Ohio was the scene of the Kent State shootings, and concentrates instead on the economy, accusing Nixon of committing the nation to a policy of increasing unemployment to help cool off inflation. In Ohio, where thousands of General Motors employees are striking, the issue is effective.

Metzenbaum uses Vietnam, he does not concentrate on it. "Our polls showed that it was less of an issue than we thought," he said. But Taft uses it to attack his opponent, saying Nixon's Vietnamization policy works while Metzenbaum favors a "bug out and cut and run position."

Taft and Metzenbaum are contending for the seat being vacated by the retirement of Democrat Stephen Young who, with Metzenbaum as his campaign manager, defeated Taft in 1964 by a whisker—16,827 votes out of almost four million cast.

"Bob paid the supreme penalty for support of Barry Goldwater," says an aide, noting that the Republican presidential nominee that year lost Ohio by more than a million votes.

Taft won the Republican nomination this year from Gov. James A. Rhodes in a bitter primary that has left some hard feelings.

"There is existing animosity within the Republican ranks, primarily because Bob junked Jim," said state Democratic Chairman Eugene "Pete" O'Grady. "Hard - core Jim Rhodes pros aren't going to forgive Bob for that."

The scandal may rub off on Taft, even though he was not involved in any way. The congressman acknowledged as much in a campaign talk.

"In 1964, Republicans did badly in Ohio because the Republicans just didn't come out to vote," he said. "The problems of the loans in Columbus could have that same effect and cause voter apathy."

The scandal also could give Democratic gubernatorial nominee John J. Gilligan such a big victory over GOP nominee Roger Cloud that Taft would be swept under, as he was in 1964.

To offset that possibility, the Republican National Committee sent down Harry "Buck" Limehouse, its national campaign director, to give the Cloud candidacy a boost. Taft also is helping to carry Cloud's candidacy. "If Metzenbaum should win and Gilligan should win, the state would be in control of left-wing liberals," he says.

Both Metzenbaum and Taft are firm believers in the new politics, combining sharp, well-organized staffs with well - financed television campaigns.

One thing appears certain: Vice President Spiro T. Agnew will not personally campaign for Taft.

The congressman says that while Agnew is welcome, having him in Ohio would have an "up and down" effect. "It would hurt in some areas and help in others," he said. "If the result is offsetting, there's no point in having him in." Instead, he wants Nixon himself to come to Ohio.

Metzenbaum forces are banking on their candidate's ability to charm voters with his style and personality. Even Metzenbaum believes in it, telling a reporter the "difference in the personality of the candidates is of some value."

Taft, who says he is more like his father than his grandfather, concedes, "He's certainly good at pouring it on in small groups."

Midi - Length Skirt Proves A Fashion Flop

By ANN HENCKEN
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The mid-calf-skirt—the midi—is a flop so far this fall. Mrs. America just isn't buying it.

At this point the second big fall buying month, September, has come and gone. Stores are stocked with up to 95 per cent of their fall merchandise. But some retailers are still waiting for the action—still as confused as their balking customers.

"If it's going to be a good season, it will be a good late season," says one.

An important Dallas retailer said, "The midi is failing to dominate the market... We're not happy with the way sales have gone. On the balance, the midi influence was overly touted as a sales getter. This gives it an odd market distinction from other trends."

"You hear that it took four years for short skirts to come in. But they had strong customer reaction in the beginning," he said, adding that even his high-priced clothes are selling just below the knee.

"The most spectacular failure has been the midi coat. The trend has just not materialized," he says.

But while the midi seems to have flopped, there has been a trend toward longer hemlines, a sort of compromise between the mini and the midcalf.

Women's resistance to the midcalf skirt hit some retailers this summer. Their test numbers of midis never sold well enough to warrant large reorders. Stores in Miami, Atlanta and Portland are stocked with only about 10 per cent midcalf lengths for fall. Some have sold as little as 2 1/2 per cent of these.

The J.C. Penney Co., a large mass market retailer, stayed away from the midcalf lengths for fall, except in token numbers. Even these haven't sold well.

"We have very few serious midcalf skirts. And until we see action in them, we won't reorder," says a spokesman, reporting a mysterious run in junior petite sizes, designed for girls 5-feet-1 and under—an indication that taller women are looking for shorter skirts.

At New York's Women's Haberdashers, a made-to-order boutique with prices starting at $155, a grim-looking hemline thermometer registers 79.4 per cent of sales for short skirts, two inches above the knee. The rest is split between at-the-knee and just below.

Even at the couture level, customers in many cities are having their doubts.

"At couture, we're selling well short of the midi," is a typical comment—from a Texas store spokesman.

Some designers are retracing their steps. Cecil Chapman showed midi lengths for fall, but she's moving up to two inches below the knee for her resort-spring collection. At David Crystal, hemlines remain at midknee for resort-spring—one half inch longer than for fall.

"The midi is finished," says a spokesman. "We don't feel the midi will be any part of the market."

At the California Fashion Creators spring previews recently, a retailer commented, "Retail-wise, the midi is dead. It was dead before it hit the stores."

However, if the midi has failed to capture the market, the midi propaganda leveled at consumers has made an impact. It has helped send pants sales zooming. Pants—called "the great copout" by midi enthusiasts—are best-sellers across the country. At some stores, pants account for as much as 65 per cent of what was previously the dress business.

The midi push has forced mini wearers to think twice about exposing so much thigh. Longer skirts are selling. The volume length is around the knee, longer than the mini but shorter than the midi. In better dresses, skirts are selling as long as two inches below the knee. Younger customers in junior departments are buying ankle-length skirts and coats along with their pants and minis.

A Massachusetts retailer says, "The main thing is—longer lengths are selling. Just because something isn't a success doesn't mean it's a failure. Minis? We can't give them away."

For all the promotion from the fashion industry since last spring, there's one big thing wrong with the midi: many American women—and men—think it's ugly. Men's comments range from caveman grunts of disapproval to lively, unprintable harangues. Also, some observers believe the women's liberation movement helped set the mood for this midi revolt and has encouraged women to think twice about following any fashion dictates.

Some women vented their wrath against the midi by joining antimidi organizations like FADD (Fight Against Dictating Designers) and POOFF (Preservation of our Femininity and Finances). Such groups revved up last spring to protest the longer skirts. They picketed. They sent out petitions. They sponsored "hem-cutting" ceremonies and Ban-the-Midi marches. They've lasted the summer, and they're digging in this fall to continue the battle. At New York's Bonwit Teller, a store strongly committed to longer lengths, President William Fine is all smiles.

"There are seven inches of choice for women—from just below the knee to the ankle. We have no control over it. Longer lengths are selling all over the country. It's not an issue. It's become a fun thing here," he says.

Some fashion executives say Mrs. America has been slow to pick up the midi because there are designers who haven't learned to handle the midi look. "I don't think some of the clothes are made right for the midi. When they are, they're selling," is the word from Boston.

The Circleville Herald, Wed. Oct. 14, 1970
Circleville, Ohio

"The midi isn't a fad except that some manufacturers and designers are tasteless, weak-willed and mentally deficient enough not to design it right," says designer Donald Brooks. He and other couture designers like Oscar de la Renta plan to plunge ahead with midcalf skirts and longer for spring.

"Longer clothes are here. That's a fact," said designer Helen Bass. "Mrs. Average America is going to take her clothes down inch by inch just as she took them up."

University Senate Set At Ohio State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University's new University Senate will be comprised of 66 faculty members, 44 students and 22 administrators, the school's Faculty Council was told Tuesday.

Dr. Charles Hoffman, chairman of a faculty committee working on the creation of the special university-wide governing body, reported on the committee's progress.

He said the Faculty Council would be abolished under the plan with all of its members, including administrators, incorporated in the new senate.

Student representation, he said, will be composed of undergraduates, graduate students, professional student groups and others.

Hoffman said the university senate, with 10 standing committees, will be the highest policy making body on campus.

Meanwhile, the present undergraduate student government will remain unchanged in both executive and legislative branches.

The university agreed to involve students more in policy making bodies during negotiations that followed a student strike and campus disorders last spring.

Court To Rule On Beer Sales Ban At Kent

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court will rule after this week on whether to remove from the Nov. 3 ballot a local option issue aimed at cutting off a source of beer for Kent State University students.

Tuesday, the high court dismissed a motion by the Portage County Board of elections to quash the removal request and said it would rule on the case by Friday.

Mark Carson and seven other Kent residents have asked the court to remove the issue from the ballot in Ward Four because of errors in petitions.

The issue, if approved by voters, would eliminate the sale of 3.2 beer and live entertainment in the ward, which borders the Kent State campus and includes taverns and bars frequented by students.

Across the country, more and more industries are moving to rural America. According to the United States Department of Agriculture, in the last 10 years nearly half of all new manufacturing jobs turned up in non-metropolitan regions.

Canada, Red China Open Normal Diplomatic Relations

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada and Red China have reached agreement to establish diplomatic relations, Foreign Secretary Mitchell Sharp announced Tuesday.

In a statement to the House of Commons, Sharp said Canada recognizes the government in Peking as the sole legal government of China.

Up to now, Canada—like the United States and other nations—recognized the Nationalist Chinese government on Formosa as the legal Chinese government.

Sharp said Canada and Red China will exchange ambassadors within six months.

Canada and the Peking Chinese have been negotiating the agreement for 20 months in Stockholm, Sweden.

Ambassador Yuchu Hsueh of Nationalist China said his goodbyes at Ottawa airport. He had planned to leave Canada before the government's announcement but his flight was delayed. He said he was distressed by Canada's decision.

About 100 members of Ottawa's Chinese community, many carrying Chinese Nationalist flags, were at the airport to say goodbye. Hsueh was the fourth Chinese Nationalist ambassador to Ottawa since 1946.

A simultaneous announcement was made in Peking and broadcast by the official New China News Agency.

The broadcast said that on the tough problem of Formosa, also called Taiwan, Communist China said it "reaffirms that Taiwan is an inalienable part" of its territory and "the Canadian government takes note of this position."

Canada had been considering whether to seek relations with mainland China since the 1950s, but no action was taken until bilateral talks began in Stockholm in February 1969, a month after Foreign Minister Mitchell Sharp announced the Canadian intentions.

Nationalist China's acting foreign minister, James Shen, told his parliament in Taipei an announcement of agreement between Ottawa and Peking was imminent. He said Chiang Kai-shek's regime would break relations with Canada within 24 hours of the announcement.

Agreement was not reached easily. Ottawa balked at the Communists' insistence that Canada recognize Red China's claim to Formosa, the home of the Nationalist government. Diplomatic recognition usually doesn't specify national boundaries, and Canada was known to consider such a stipulation a dangerous precedent.

But Sharp has held throughout to a one-China policy, and observers speculated that the issue was resolved by a Canadian pledge to vote next month for a resolution in the U.N. General Assembly to seat the Communist regime instead of Nationalist China in the United Nations. Trudeau's government has said its vote on the question would depend on the outcome of the Stockholm talks.

Even with a switch by Ottawa, however, the resolution is expected to be rejected again.

Marcello
Faces Jail;
Appeal Nixed

WASHINGTON (AP) — On a 7-2 vote the Supreme Court cleared the way Tuesday for a six-month jail term for Carlos Marcello, alleged New Orleans racketeer.

Marcello's plea for freedom on bail while he appeals for a new trial was turned down without comment by the court's majority. Justice Hugo L. Black filed a lengthy dissent in which Justice William O. Douglas joined.

Marcello, 60, was convicted in a Texas federal court in 1968 of "intimidating" FBI agent Patrick J. Collins at the New Orleans airport in 1966.

In seeking a new trial Marcello claims he was trapped illegally by agents who mixed Collins with a group of photographers and reporters Marcello tried to shoo away as he left the airport.

Marcello originally was sentenced to two years in prison, but last Friday U.S. District Judge John V. Singleton of Houston reduced the sentence to six months.

Singleton said his action was based on Marcello's age and on a review of the circumstances of the case. The judge placed Marcello on probation for two years and left intact a $5,000 fine.

Five Points News

By Mrs. Francis Furniss

There were 34 present at the United Methodist Sunday School Sunday morning. Worship service followed with 55 present.

The annual Turkey Supper will be held Saturday evening, Oct. 17 at the church basement. Serving 5-8 p.m. Public invited.

The Five Points United Methodist WSCS met Wednesday evening in the church basement for their regular October meeting. A short business session was held with the president, Mrs. George Kern presiding. Plans were discussed concerning the annual Turkey Supper to be held Oct. 17. They joined Derby WSCS for a joint meeting at 8 p. m. Mrs. Clarence Radcliffe, Dist. Pres., was guest speaker and gave some very interesting and educational comments. Her topic was "Who Am I?"

Mrs. Clare Clark welcomed the guests and conducted the business session. At the close of the meeting lovely refreshments were served from a beautifully appointed tea table centered with a lovely arrangement of fall flowers. Those attending from Five Points were Mrs. George Kern, Mrs. Richard Everman, Mrs. Clarence Finch, Mrs. Francis Furniss, Miss Laura Long, Mrs. Robert See, Mrs. Austin Fuller, Mrs. Marion Riley, Mrs. E. L. Sheets and Mrs. William Riley.

Mrs. Francis Furniss, Mrs. Loring Stoer, Miss Laura Long, Mrs. Clark McCafferty, and Mrs. E. L. Sheets, members of the Five Points WCU attended the Pickaway County WCU convention last Friday at the Salem Church at Meade. Mrs. Nona Hankins, county president presided over the business meeting. Mrs. Francis Furniss gave the morning devotion, using as her theme, "Friends of Jesus". Mrs. Albert Shoemaker, State President was guest speaker and gave a very inspirational talk. Mrs. Marcella Helser conducted an impressive memorial service. The meeting closed with group singing, "Blest Be The Tie That Binds."

A covered dish dinner was enjoyed at the noon hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Furniss were hosts at a family picnic dinner and fall Roundup at their home Sunday honoring the October birthdays of the family. Those enjoying the bountiful dinner were Mr. Roy Purcell of Circleville, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Purcell, Mrs. Goldie Barthelmas and granddaughter Lynn Barthelmas of Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. Dale W. Secrecy Relaxed Of Welfare Clients FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A new state regulation relaxes the strict secrecy surrounding the identity of welfare clients.

Economic Security Commissioner Merritt Deitz said it strikes "fine balance between the right of privacy and the need for private organizations to take the initiative" by contacting welfare recipients for possible jobs.

Taft Says Metzenbaum 'Voice Of Doom'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Democratic Senate candidate Howard Metzenbaum called upon his Republican opponent, Robert Taft Jr., today to stick by their agreement to limit radio-TV spending.

Taft, meanwhile urged Metzenbaum to start discussing solutions and stop sounding like "a prophet of economic doom and despair."

In the governor's race, Republican Roger Cloud said a vote for Democrat John J. Gilligan would be a vote for a state income tax.

And Gilligan said Ohioans want "an honest program of tax reform."

Metzenbaum, campaigning in Stark County today, decried limiting the amounts candidates may spend on television and radio advertising.

He said Nixon might have been correct in saying such curbs are only a partial answer, "but in vetoing this bill he has erased a first partial step taken by Congress to lower the high cost of campaigning."

Metzenbaum said he will continue to abide by the spending limitations agreement he reached early in the campaign with Taft.

Taft said in Columbus today Metzenbaum is being "demagogic about the unemployment issue by playing on the fears of voters and advocating policies which would threaten the job security of workers throughout the nation."

He challenged Metzenbaum to "talk in terms of specific remedies."

Taft criticized his opponent's "meat-ax approach" to defense spending cuts, saying it portends more unemployment and endangers the U.S. defense when Soviet military power is increasing.

Cloud told an audience in Fremont: "Those who want a state income tax will vote for Jack Gilligan. Those who don't will vote for me."

"My opponent's shocking disregard for the taxpayers is amazing," Cloud said. "His outrageous yearning to place an unreasonable burden on Ohioans is alarming. He thinks the solution to every problem is to spend, spend and tax, tax, tax."

Cloud said no man, state or nation has ever taxed and spent its way into prosperity.

Gilligan told newsmen in Cleveland today voters are rejecting school tax levies "because they are finding it impossible to bear the heavy burden that has been placed on them by an unfair tax base."

Cloud's tax proposals, he said, "would perpetuate that unfair tax structure and would do absolutely nothing to help the school districts already suffering from a low tax base."

Gilligan said the state needs a program of tax reform that will "shift the burden onto those better able to afford it, and a program that will permit the state to get aid to those school districts most in need."

In another political development, state Democratic Chairman Eugene P. O'Grady said Tuesday Metzenbaum may have suffered a temporary setback by the disclosure that he once helped to organize a school labeled by the federal government as "an adjunct of the Communist Party."

But O'Grady predicted the Republican loan scandal will bounce back to become the chief issue of the campaign.

Metzenbaum told newsmen Tuesday the Ohio School of Social Sciences he helped to organize in 1944 was aimed at improving labor management relations.

He denied ever being sympathetic to Communists and said the U.S. attorney general's office told him at the time that for an organization to be on the subversive list does not mean the government was questioning the loyalty of people connected with it.

Building Freeze At Cleveland Stays In Effect

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Water Pollution Control Board refused Tuesday to lift a building ban imposed upon Cleveland six months ago.

The board let its order stand until it receives reports next month on specific improvements the city has made in its waste treatment facilities.

The order specifically bans new sewer connections, thereby halting new construction. Several Cleveland officials appeared before the board to ask that the freeze be lifted, saying it was damaging the city's economy and holding up projects in the inner city.

Heavy Rain, Tornadoes Hit Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Thunderstorms and locally heavy rains swept northward along the Mississippi Valley and headed into the eastern Great Lakes region today.

Tornadoes Tuesday killed a young girl in southern Louisiana and injured three persons in Mississippi.

The rain storms were particularly heavy in the western Great Lakes states, with Chicago receiving more than 2 inches of rain in six hours, half of that coming in a single hour.

Grand Rapids and Saginaw, Mich., and Peoria, Ill. reported about an inch of rain in six-hour periods.

Chilly air poured down from Canada into the northern Rocky Mountain states, the Plains and the lower Mississippi Valley.

Mild or warm temperatures prevailed, however, in the South and East.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 25 at Reno, Nev.; Evanston, Wn., and Cul Bank, Mont., to 80 at Daytona Beach and Miami, Fla.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

His Social Drinking Goes To Extremes

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I should entertain his clients more often, but lately every party is ruined by his conduct. Sometimes he arrives home that day already badly intoxicated. He believes a good host should drink with his guests, load their drinks and keep their glasses filled.

When he drinks, his language grows profane — then, obscene. I give him one of those "you've had enough" looks, he tells me loudly to "get lost."

I know he needs professional help, but he turns a deaf ear to any such suggestion. He says he's a "social" drinker, but there is nothing social about a host who passes out on the sofa before his guests leave.

We owe so many invitations, and in his business it pays for us to entertain clients, but I just can't face another of those evenings. People still ask us to their homes, and when we go, I have to drive us home. Can you help me, Abby?

DEAR HEARTSICK: There is no help for the person who refuses to admit that he needs help. It may take a boot in the bank balance to get your husband to face reality. In the meantime, try to figure out why your man can't face life sober. Drinking is a symptom of deeper trouble.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please tell me why it is that when a son reaches physical maturity and has affairs with the opposite sex his father will excuse his actions with, "Oh, boys will be boys..." he is only sowing his wild oats."

DEAR JUST: It's the same kind of cockeyed thinking that makes Mr. Wonderful want to pulverize the rat who would attempt to violate his sister's virtue, yet he does his darndest to get a chick in the feathers without realizing that she's somebody's sister.

DEAR ABBY: Men complain because their wives are "cold." May I tell you about my marriage? My husband and I both work. I have tried to draw him into conversations about my work, because it is fascinating, but he isn't interested. And he never says a word about his work, although I ask lots of questions, hoping to generate a little conversation between us.

Our "day" together is Sunday. And this is what it's like: I am up at 8 a.m. He sleeps until noon.

When he gets up, lunch is ready for the family, but he

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — There was some unusually satisfactory television viewing Tuesday night for those willing to do a little channel jumping.

First there was CBS's first National Geographic special of the season. Then, on ABC, came Edward G. Robinson in "The Old Man Who Cried Wolf," the best so far in the "Movie of the Week" series this season. Finally there was CBS's interesting, if hardly probing, portrait of Henry Kissinger, presidential assistant for national security.

"Zoo of the World" was the ambitious title of the CBS special, and while the hour did miss some of the 800 or so in existence, it did manage to hit some of the most interesting.

We saw a children's zoo in Central Park, an English lord's manor transformed into a commercial game preserve, a Japanese "insectarium" with 15,000 live specimens, and a Bronx zoo exhibit showing night-loving creatures. There were glimpses of rare animals in captivity—a white gorilla in Spain, white tigers in India. There were also scenes of ordinary, popular zoos in Europe and the United States.

It was unlike any previous program in the series, but certainly ranks among the most interesting.

Edward G. Robinson was impressive and convincing in the suspense tale, playing a 70-year-old man who sees an old friend murdered but is unable to convince anyone, including his own family, that it was not the figment of a senile mind.

The old man's determination to show his friend was murdered and did not die of a heart attack led him from one horrendous situation to another. The murderer reappeared and threatened him; the police made fun of his story; school children threw a can at him; his son called a psychiatrist who put him in a hospital for observation.

It was most unusual at the end. Instead of the usual round-up of villains and strolling off to a happy ending, Robinson played a realistic windup which made it something of a shocker.

"60 Minutes" devoted the longest segment of its time to Dr. Kissinger, presidential counselor and confidante.

We saw Kissinger in his White House office and at his San Clemente office; Kissinger on a California beach and on a Disneyland ride with his two children. A former Harvard colleague discussed his disappointment with Kissinger's position on the Cambodia incursion and Kissinger replied with gentle tact. A Washington woman discussed Kissinger's reputation as a swinger—"He just doesn't have the time."

The hour also included a sample of James Whitmore's "Evening with Will Rogers" solo show, filmed during a Washington performance, and a filmed visit to Medgar Evers'

Conference OKs Strong Drug Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — House and Senate conferees have approved a bill that shifts the emphasis of criminal penalties from drug users to professional traffickers in narcotics.

The measure also contains controversial legislation that would give police authority to carry out so-called "no knock" raids, after convincing a judge such raids would be the only means to avoid destruction of suspected narcotics.

Casual distribution and use of marijuana would be treated as a misdemeanor under the revised legislation. A first offense of possession could be dealt with by a judge by probation, parole or dismissal of charges.

The conference approved stiffer penalties for professional narcotics peddlers, though the death penalty and life imprisonment were eliminated from the possible sentences.

The bill approved spending $26 million for treatment and rehabilitation programs and called for an indepth study of the effects of marijuana.

Additionally, strict controls would be imposed on the distribution of previously unregulated drugs including tranquilizers, pen pills and sleeping pills.

Rejected was a Senate plan to put all federal narcotics treatment and education programs under a U.S. Health Institute.

Westmoreland Pledges Work Toward All-Volunteer Army

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland, who has been cool to the Nixon administration's plan for an all-volunteer Army, Tuesday pledged to expend every effort to achieve such a force.

But the Army Chief of Staff warned the American people that "even money will not do the job" of switching from a draft-based Army to an all-volunteer force unless the country rallies in full support and critics stop downgrading the Army.

"We cannot attract the kind of soldier we need into an organization denigrated by some, directly attacked by others, and halfheartedly supported by many," Westmoreland said.

"This country cannot have it both ways."

The Army's top general chose the convention of the Association of the United States Army to voice his commitment to an "all out effort in working to

Police Respond, But 'Victim' Sleeping Well

LIGHTHOUSE POINT, Fla. (AP) — Two police cars, sirens whining and lights flashing, arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Plude. The officers jumped out, ran to the door and told the startled couple: "We're looking for the man with the heart attack."

The Pludes said no one was ill.

But the officers said a department store clerk had called the home a few moments before, and the call was answered by a man who could not talk — only pant.

Equally baffled, Mrs. Plude went exploring. She found the family's 10-month-old English sheepdog, Puffin', asleep beside the bedroom phone.

Junior officers have attitudes differing from older officers and non-commissioned officers.

"Their values and attitudes need not necessarily be endorsed by Army leadership, yet we must recognize that they do exist."

Korean Crash Kills 42 Boys; 23 Are Injured

SEOUL (AP) — Forty-two schoolboys returning from an excursion were killed today and 23 others suffered burns when a train crashed into their bus near Onyang, 45 miles south of Seoul, the national police reported.

Five of the injured boys were reported in critical condition. The bus burst into flames as the train dragged it about 100 yards after the collision at an unmanned railroad crossing, police officials said.

They said the bus was carrying 65 students from a Seoul junior high school. They were returning from a school excursion to a national shrine near Onyang, a hot springs resort town.

Dogs At Fault

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Sheep raisers have complained to a legislative agricultural committee that marauding dogs are a main cause in the sharp decline of sheep farms since 1950, from 15,000 to 2,000 today.

How The Weather Looks

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official weather bureau summary for Ohio:

More showery weather is in store for the Buckeye State. The showers are expected to be set off by a cold front moving in from the west.

Early this morning the front extended from northern Michigan to southeast Missouri. The front will move into western Ohio and beyond the Ohio River by Thursday morning.

Cooler air pushing in behind the front will bring readings in the 40s in the northwest counties and low to mid 50s elsewhere tonight.

Showers should end by Thursday morning and dry weather is likely for the latter part of the week.

Clear weather Thursday night will probably force the mercury to drop into the 30s Friday morning but a warming trend will set in by the weekend.

FORECASTS

OHIO — Chance of showers tonight mainly east and south portions and cooler, lows upper 40s to mid 50s. Partly cloudy and cooler Thursday, highs upper 50s to mid 60s.

NORTHWEST INLAND, WEST LAKE SHORE AND WEST CENTRAL — Mostly cloudy and cooler tonight with a chance of showers this evening, lows in the upper 40s. Thursday partly cloudy and cooler, highs in the upper 50s. Outlook for Friday, fair and cool.

Reds Lose 3rd Series Tilt, 9-3

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP) — Sparky Anderson wasn't throwing in the towel today, but he had to be wondering from which direction the next Baltimore punch would come—and whether it would be a World Series knockout blow to his reeling Cincinnati Reds.

"It ain't over yet, but it's getting awful close," the Cincinnati manager murmured Tuesday after the Orioles, striking with brute force from expected and unexpected sources, flogged the Reds 9-3 to soar within one victory of their second series sweep in five years.

The Reds, glassy-eyed and rubber-legged after walking into a grand-slam uppercut by pitcher Dave McNally as well as bases-empty clouts by Frank Robinson and Don Buford, pinned their flickering hopes on the strong right arm of Gary Nolan today in game No. 4.

Jim Palmer, who beat Nolan 4-3 in the series opener last Saturday, was Baltimore pilot Earl Weaver's choice to try for the takeout—and the 11th four-game sweep in the 67-year history of baseball's premier main event.

"I like to walk out a winner, but if I'm a loser, even in four games, I won't go out with my head down," Anderson said after Tuesday's lopsided setback to a Baltimore team which has won its last 17 games—11 at the end of the regular season, three in the American League playoffs against Minnesota and three more in the series.

"I remember a man named Walter Alston who got beat four straight and he's still walking around with his head high."

The Orioles shocked Alston's

double, for a total of six hits in 12 series at-bats.

Boog Powell, who had clubbed two homers and delivered four runs in the first two games, went 0-for-3 and was hardly missed.

The Reds' heads also were shaking over spectacular plays by Brooks Robinson and second baseman Davey Johnson that helped back them into a dark corner from which no other club in series history has been able to escape.

Brooks took a hit away from luckless Johnny Bench in the sixth when he sprawled headlong to snare the Cincinnati slugger's vicious line drive in the webbing of his glove. Johnson made a leaping, backhand stab of a third inning liner, ticketed for extra bases, off Rose's bat.

"Dave Bristol (the Milwaukee manager and former Reds' skipper) told me before the series that we'd have to beat Baltimore because they wouldn't beat themselves," Rose said. "He said they gave you to death. And they do."

Last year, Mayo Smith, then manager of the Detroit Tigers, put it another way. "Trying to hit a ball through the Baltimore infield," he said, "was like trying to throw a hamburger through a brick wall."

In the Orioles' clubhouse, where Brooks Robinson shared the spotlight with McNally following the left-hander's second home run in two series and the second grand slam of his career, someone asked the 33-year-old third base marvel what he intended to do for an encore.

"Win tomorrow," Brooks replied. "That'd be a pretty good encore."

Toledo And Wittenberg Lead Ohio Grid Schedule

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Toledo University tries for its 17th consecutive victory in a Mid-American Conference game at Western Michigan Saturday.

And Wittenberg goes after its 16th straight win, hosting Findlay College. Those contests are among 24 Saturday involving Ohio colleges and universities.

The Cincinnati at Wichita State game was postponed until Oct. 31 because of problems stemming from a plane crash two weeks ago that killed several members of the Wichita team.

Ohio State University, the Buckeye state's gift to the National rankings, is host to Minnesota, a squad referred to by Ohio State coach Woody Hayes "a typical, good Big Ten team."

The Buckeyes hope to have ball carrier Larry Zelina back on at least a part-time basis while quarterbacks Rex Kern and Ron Maciejowski have been practicing their passing attacks to use on the Gophers.

Toledo has a 5-0 and Western Michigan is 3-2 for the year. Toledo keys its offense to quarterback Chuck Ealey who has a season mark of 69 pass completions in 125 attempts for 897 yards and nine touchdowns.

While his passes have gone to 10 receivers this year, most of the time they are aimed at either Don Fair or Al Baker. Fair has caught 37 for 364 yards and Baker is 16 for 308.

The Rockets ground game revolves around Charlie Cole, Joe Schwartz and Tony Harris, who have a total of 642 yards rushing combined. Harris was injured through the first three games so his 189 total yards has come in the last two games.

Wittenberg hasn't lost at home since Eastern Michigan's 14-7 win Nov. 16, 1968, and is favored over Findlay.

Wittenberg is among the nation's leading scorers with a 59-point per game average. The Tigers also have one of the nation's stingiest defenses, allowing only 83 plus yards per game.

Findlay's 28-7 victory over Bluffton last week was the Oilers' first of the year against two defeats. Steve Traucht, a senior halfback, is the Oilers' leading ground gainer with 242 yards.

In other Mid-American Conference action, Miami (4-0) is at Ohio University (2-2), while Kent State (2-2) is at Bowling Green (0-4).

In Ohio Conference action, Ohio Wesleyan is at Muskingum Baldwin - Wallace at Kenyon, Marietta at Capital, Denison at Wooster, Hiram at Otterbein and Heidelberg at Mount Union.

Buffalo is at Dayton Temple at Xavier, Akron, which saw a 12-game winning skien snapped last week, is host to Indiana State; Hillsdale, Mich., which beat Ohio Northern last week, plays at Ashland and Kentucky State is at Central State.

Defiance is at Manchester, Ind.; John Carroll hosts hiel, Pa.; Ohio Northern is host to Delaware Valley, Pa.; Case Western Reserve is at Washington & Jefferson; Northern Michigan at Youngstown, Bluffton at Anderson, Ind., and Slippery Rock is at Wilmington.

Redskins' Front Four Share Kudos

WASHINGTON (AP) — Floyd Peters says the toughest job he has as defensive player-coach of the Washington Redskins is to keep the front four charged up for the next game after they have an outstanding performance.

"I didn't have that problem previously but he does this week."

Peters, the 12-year veteran defensive tackle who came to Washington from Philadelphia this season, wants to keep the spark kindling in the front four that stopped Detroit last Sunday and gave the Redskins a 31-10 upset victory.

"We got better execution against the Lions than we've had all season," said Peters. "It's a young defensive line and getting better with each game. It was the best performance we've had since we came here."

The Lions led the league in rush, averaging 199 yards a game, before they met Washington last Sunday. The Redskins stopped them for 99 yards.

For their performance, the Redskins defense especially the front four—tackles Peters and Bill Brundige, and ends Bruce Anderson and Leo Carroll and John Hoffman who each played a half—were named the Associated Press Defensive Players of the Week.

Lamonica, Wells Win Grid Honor

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Oakland Raiders are finally back on the right track after Daryle Lamonica and Warren Wells took them for a little trip through the air.

Grouped with an 0-2-1 record, the Lamonica-Wells duo was flying high last Sunday as they cut down the previously unbeaten Denver Broncos 35-23 with a spectacular aerial show.

Lamonica completed 20 of 37 passes for four touchdowns and set up a fifth, and two of them came in the final period after Denver had taken a 23-21 lead.

Wells was on the receiving end of seven of those passes, three for touchdowns, and ate up 198 yards.

For their heroics, the pair share The Associated Press pro football Offensive Player of the Week honors, barely beating out halfback Ron Johnson of the New York Giants.

Johnson, who started the day as the National Football League's leading receiver with 21 catches, latched on to only two Sunday. But instead he ran the Giants past the Philadelphia Eagles 30-23 with touchdown runs of 68 and 34, the second with 49 seconds remaining.

Wayne Zmral, Northern Illinois University, won the 1970 Association of College Unions-International all events bowling title with a 10 game score of 2033.

Rick Morehart (22), back, and Dale Harris (45), back, are members of the Teays Valley High School football team. Morehart is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Morehart, Ashville, and Harris is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Harris, Ashville.

Meet The Mustangs

Dave Scribner (34), back, and Wallace Ward (53), interior linemen, are members of the Westfall High School football team. Scribner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Scribner, Route 1, Orient, and Ward is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Ward, Route 1, Orient.

Brave backs — Logan Elm High School's football team is triggered by these nine backs who have the responsibility of moving the ball club. They will put their Power I offense into action Friday night when they host the Bearcats of Paint Valley.

County Schools Set For Friday's Action

All three county schools will see action Friday night when Teays Valley hosts Hamilton Township, Logan Elm entertains Paint Valley and Westfall hits the road to West Jefferson.

"We got beat by a good football team," Teays Valley Coach Dick Kidwell stated, "and you can't take anything away from West Jefferson. They are big, fast and well coached."

"We made some mental mistakes," Kidwell continued, "and you can't get away with that against a team like West Jeff. We didn't play one of our better games and you have to be at your best when you meet teams of this caliber."

The Vikings will be going against a club that has put on some unusual performances this year. At times they have been a strong defensive club but in several games they have been thoroughly crushed by the opposition.

HAMILTON runs from a straight T formation with some speed and power. Vic Pinion and Mark Daubitz carry the brunt of the Rangers running game and quarterback Greg Lafferty can go to the air when the occasion arises.

The Vikings will utilize their power offense with Champ Henson, Bob Tucker and Ron Crosby sharing the load.

Teays Valley's big tackle Bob Browning has been sidelined with an infection but may be ready for Friday's fray. If Browning is unable to play his spot will be filled by John Glick. Offensively the Vikings will go with Steve Hines and Jeff Helser at the ends with Jack Brinker and either Browning or Glick at the other spot.

Chuck Frazier and Rob Archer will handle the guard posts with Dean Bastian over the ball.

Stan Clay will be calling the signals. Ron Crosby will be the fullback Bob Tucker the halfback and Champ Henson will be moving from the tailback position.

On defense the Vikings will have Henson and Scott Barr at the ends, Brinker and Rob Archer at the tackles and Terry McDaniel at the middle guard spot.

TUCKER and Crosby will be at the linebackers posts, Hines and Jeff Ehman at the halfbacks, Ray Good at safety and Helser will be the rover back.

Westfall Coach Bill Vance will take his Mustangs to West Jefferson to meet the powerful Roughriders.

The young Mustangs are coming off a loss to Adena and will have to go all out to stay in the game with West Jeff.

"Mistakes and inexperience hurt us at Adena," Coach Vance commented, "and we are working hard to correct. We have the desire and our young kids are going all out to overcome some of our mistakes."

They will be going up against a West Jeff team that has the guns and knows how to use them. Jeff has been tearing up the Metropolitan League and will be out to look good against the Mustangs.

Coach Vance will be working on his defense and will not be certain how they will go into the ball game until Friday.

OFFENSIVELY the Mustangs have been going with Randy Long at center, and Artie Dick and Larry Adams at the guards.

Joe Jude has been at a tackle spot and either Tom Mumford or Karl Spires at the other. Wyatt Fraas and Tom Musselman are the ends.

Dave Shannon has been calling the signals, Dave Eitel at halfback, Gary Underwood the flanker, and Steve Nevil and fullback.

"We've been in every game except one this year and we still have a chance for the SVC if we can beat Paint Valley Friday," LE Coach Bob Stant says.

Paint Valley is the defending champion of the SVC and has a 4-1 record this year. The only loss for the Bearcats has been a 34-14 shellacking administered by the Blue Devils of The Plains.

The Bearcats opened the season with a 20-6 win over Madison South. Then came the loss at Mt. Sterling. The following week they beat Williamsburg, 21-14. Oct. 2 they won 30-12 over Piketon and last week blanked East Clinton, 21-0.

Cavaliers Sign Anderson, Cooke

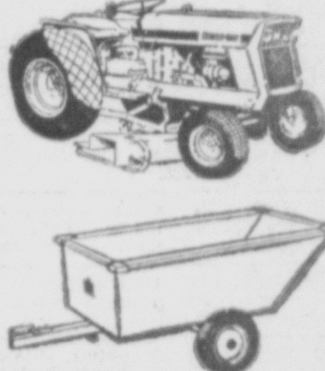

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland Cavaliers Coach Bill Fitch says the two newest members of his National Basketball Association expansion squad may be able to help out right away — and right away could be tonight in the season opener against the Buffalo Braves.

The Braves, also a new NBA expansion team, have defeated the Cavaliers in two preseason games by a total of five points.

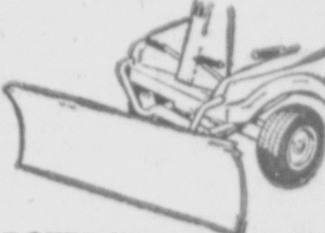

The new additions are Cliff Anderson and Joe Cooke. Both of them worked out with the Cavaliers Monday night and signed contracts Tuesday night.

The highest individual series in the 1970 ABC Booster division was a 693 by John Talbot of Little Rock, Ark.

Grid Forecaster Sees Irish Victory

By HERSCHEL NISSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Having Plunkett and Mississippi's Archie Manning earlier in the season, viewers get a look at another Heisman Trophy quarter-back candidate this Saturday in Notre Dame's Joe Theismann.

The Fighting Irish face Missouri before more than 55,000 spectators and a national TV audience (ABC-TV, 3:30 p.m., EDT) in what may go down as the Injury Bowl.

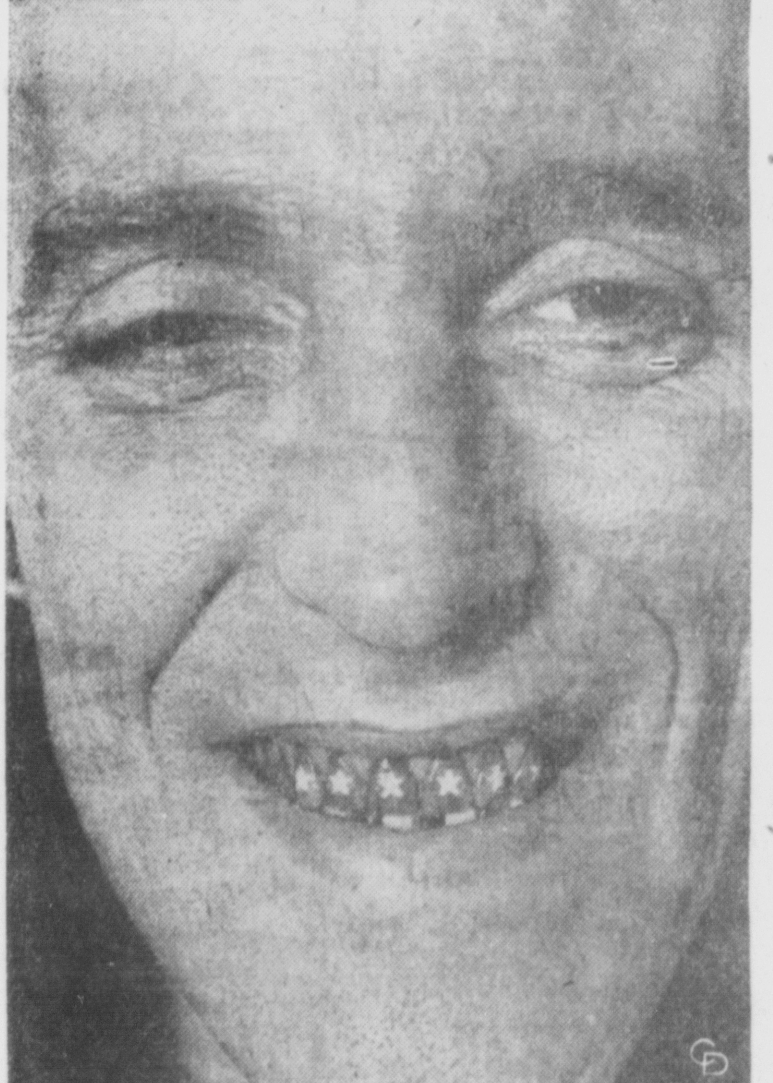

Both third-ranked Notre Dame and the 18th-rated Tigers suffered crippling injuries last Saturday. The Irish lost guard Larry DiNardo for several weeks with a knee injury while Joe Moore, Missouri's ace runner, suffered a shoulder separation in the first quarter against Nebraska. Both were strong pre-season All-America prospects.

However, Notre Dame can console itself with the brilliant passing combination of Theismann and Tom Gatewood and a horde of fine runners while the Tigers, without much passing, can hardly take the loss of Moore.

In the first-ever meeting of these two Midwestern football powers the pick is... Notre Dame.

Michigan State at Michigan—This is college football's No. 1 gate attraction with a 23rd consecutive sellout crowd—103,000—guaranteed back in July. Although Michigan upset Ohio State last season, the Wolverines lost to Michigan State. Not this time... Michigan.

Minnesota at Ohio State—This could be the toughest game on the Buckeyes' schedule before the Michigan finale. But Woody Hayes isn't about to let his troops look that far ahead. Ohio State.

STARS AND STRIPES FOREVER—Paul Grasham, 30, of Sacramento, Calif., is very proud of his stars and stripes-studded teeth, but the San Francisco dentist who made them for him reportedly said he never would make another set like them. Graham, a hip clothing store operator, said he did it to make people happy.

Nebraska at Kansas—Both teams are coming off big wins, Kansas, despite a 1-9 campaign, almost upset the Cornhuskers a year ago and could pull it off this time, but... Nebraska.

Georgia Tech at Auburn—Explosive Tigers have yet to be held under 33 points while Tech's ace runner, Brent Cunningham, suffered a shoulder injury last Saturday. Auburn.

Oklahoma at Colorado—Buffaloes get even for last season's loss, Colorado.

Alabama at Tennessee—Tennessee's Bill Battle played for Bear Bryant and has the horses to give his old teacher a lesson, Tennessee.

Kentucky at Louisiana State—The Wildcats have a way of making the big ones close, but few teams win on Saturday night in Baton Rouge except... Louisiana State.

Texas Tech at Mississippi State—Red Raiders, ranked 17th and a newcomer to The AP's top twenty, want to stay up here and also get even for last year. It should be close but... Texas Tech.

West Virginia at Pitt—Both may have been looking ahead to this traditional scrap last week-end when Duke upset West Virginia and Pitt squeaked by Navy. Panthers have come back, but not this far. West Virginia.

Senators Interested In Deal With Flood

BALTIMORE (AP) — Bob Short, the flamboyant owner of the Washington Senators who recently latched on to bad-boy Denny McLain, now is out to land another of baseball's renegades—Curt Flood.

Short revealed Tuesday night that he had traded a fringe player to the Philadelphia Phillies for the right to negotiate with Flood, the controversial outfielder who is involved in a $1.4 million anti-trust suit against baseball.
